

Lance Lumbard is a Certified Lake Professional and Senior Scientist with Wood Environment & Infrastructure Solutions, Inc. where he has worked on lake restoration and management projects for the past eight years. Lance received his undergraduate degree from Florida State University, his Master of Science from Louisiana State University, and his Master of Business Administration from the University of Central Florida. Lance has been working to assist state and local government agencies with large-scale lake and water quality restoration projects in and around Central Florida for nearly 20 years. Lance and the Wood team work to improve and protect water quality by assessing both the watershed and the lake while providing practical solutions that maximize limited financial resources.
