

Ed Page practices aviation law in Tampa, Florida. He has defended drone pilots, general aviation, charter, and Part 121 pilots, flight instructors, mechanics, and others involved in the aviation industry for twenty years. Page is a FAA certificated remote pilot, CFII (instrument flight instructor), and owns and operates a Lake Amphibian seaplane. Before Page joined Carlton Fields in 2000, he served as a state, federal, and then as a special prosecutor for Kenneth W. Starr in the Whitewater investigation involving President Clinton and Monica Lewinsky. Flying is in Page's blood: his Father worked for TWA for 35 years and retired as a TWA 747 Captain; his Mother worked as a TWA flight attendant.
